Recruiting Volunteer leader for “Friends of Mai Po”

Mai Po Nature Reserve – A Wetland of International Importance

The wetlands surrounding Mai Po Marshes and Inner Deep Bay in the northwestern part of Hong Kong, are renowned as a heaven for both migratory and wintering waterbirds, as well as a refuge for a diversity of other wildlife.

In 1984, WWF Hong Kong began to carry out active management inside the Nature Reserve for environmental education and conservation purposes and twenty years later, it has become a centre for wetland education, research and monitoring, a practical example of wetland conservation and management, and an example of sustainable ecotourism in Hong Kong.

Become a volunteer leader and guiding other volunteers to experience the wetland conservation

WWF Hong Kong is now recruiting volunteer leader(s) to help us to manage the volunteers of Mai Po and experience the wetland conservation in Mai Po Nature Reserve together with the volunteers. The job provides opportunities to lead a group of volunteers, making friends & coordinating with the volunteer, try field work in Mai Po Nature Reserve together, involving providing training to the volunteers.

Volunteer leader job duties

- Coordinating volunteers from “Friends of Mai Po”
- Lead the volunteers to do the volunteer work twice a month during weekend
- Provide training to the volunteers who might involve in Wetland Management, research & monitoring, interpretation for the public visitors.

Who can apply?

If you

- ✓ Outgoing & Nature lover
- ✓ Age 16 or above;
- ✓ Able to lead volunteer programme twice a month in the weekends
- ✓ Can volunteer your time without any payment;
- ✓ Are able to work with us continuously, i.e. not a summer job or short term job
